

Team Work

JONATHAN HARMER | STEPHEN MORCOMBE | MANDI DRIEDGER | CASEY MAGUIRE | ANGELO WHITE

ON SITE AT THE EAGLE GOLD MINE, which celebrated its first gold pour on September 17, Jonathan Harmer is responsible for the start-up, trouble shooting, commissioning and maintenance of all the mine's electrical equipment as an electrical journeyman. He started with Victoria in April and moved with his family to the Yukon early this summer.

"The thing I like best about my job are the people I work with," says Jonathan. "Coming to work in the morning and greeting people you have mutual respect for boosts self-esteem and puts the wheels in motion for having a really good day."

Red Seal Millwright Stephen Morcombe started his career with the Australian Navy before transferring his skills to the mining industry in his home country. Stephen joined the Victoria Gold team at the Eagle Gold Mine in March. "I enjoy the opportunities at the mine to advance my skills and provide for my family," says Stephen.

Haul Truck Operator, Yukoner and self-described golf-addict Mandi Driedger has been working at the mine since July and is training to be a bull dozer operator. She most enjoys the security her job brings her and the close-knit crew on site. "I really hope for career longevity with the skills I'm developing with Victoria Gold," says Mandi.

Like Mandi, in his role as a Haul Truck Operator, fellow Yukoner Casey Maguire, is responsible for the safe loading of the haul trucks, supplying ore to the crusher and general maintenance of the haul roads.

"I really enjoy the team I work with and the many opportunities available here at site to advance my abilities," says Casey. "I am proud of how Victoria Gold connects with people in the community and the great relationship the company has with the First Nation of Na-Cho Nyak Dun."

Shovel Operator Angelo White is new to the Victoria Gold team, having started at the mine on August 17, exactly one month before the first gold pour. "I really enjoy the friendly atmosphere at site with my co-workers and supervisors and the beautiful scenery and friendly people here in the Yukon," says Angelo.
